

FUNDING FOR US GRADUATE STUDENTS TO STUDY IN THE UK

This handout is designed to assist prospective US students' search for funding. The resources and suggestions included are not exhaustive but have all been recommended by the British Council.

Sources of Financial Assistance

The Foundation Center is an independent non-profit organization established in 1956. Its mission is to increase the understanding of the foundation field. To this end, they publish the Foundation Directory, a classic reference guide for grantseekers, and to produce many other directories, guides and research reports. The Center disseminates current information on foundation and corporate giving through its libraries and network of over 200 co-operating collections in the US and abroad.

Internet Resources

1. The Financial Aid Information Page provides a free, comprehensive and objective guide to student financial aid: www.finaid.org. It includes sections on Study Abroad, Fulbright Loans and provides an on-line database search for appropriate scholarships/fellowships through FastWEB (Financial Aid Search Through the Web).
2. The Grantsmanship Center (TGCI) announces daily new grant opportunities available on the Federal Register: www.tgci.com

Many UK universities offer their own awards. Interested persons should inquire about scholarship possibilities when they contact institutions for information.

Federal Loans

As part of a reciprocal agreement with the UK, the US Department of Education (ED) in Washington DC offers federal loans for study overseas on the basis that students attend pre-approved universities/colleges which participate in the scheme. To find out if your chosen institution is pre-approved, check the British Council website or call the USDE at (202) 708 8820. For a loan application pack call 1 800 433 3243.

General information is available on the Internet: www.ed.gov/offices/OPE/ including the FAFSA Express: the Free Application for Federal Student Aid which can be downloaded from the site (For more details, see the British Council Information Sheet 6 US Federal Aid to Study in the UK).
